Council Passes Resolution
Asking Approval of State Railroad Commission

GAS AND ELECTRIC WINS POINT

Their Power Proposition
for Pump Station Crane
Is Accepted by the Council

The council last night passed a resolution requesting the railroad commission of Wisconsin to grant a permit to the Wisconsin Railway, Light and Power company to retail electric power and light here.

This was in the face of a telegram from Commissioner John H. Roemer that the commission had no authority so to do.

The resolution was introduced by Alderman Paul W. Mahoney and passed without objection.

The proposition put forth by the La Crosse Gas and Electric company for the furnishing of electric current to operate the crane at the new water plant was accepted last night at a special meeting of the common council. This action followed defeat of a motion by Alderman P. W. Mahoney for the city to allow the Wisconsin Railway, Light and Power company to furnish electric current to the city. City Attorney Jesse Higbee held that the city could not grant this power without the consent of the railroad commission.

A petition was read from citizens of the north side who requested the city engineer to make plans and specifications on moving the sewer on Logan street, leading into Black river. They said that this was the only spot on the river that was fit for a bathing beach, and could not be used on account of the sewer running so close.

More Garbage Collectors

The board of public works reported to the council they had set in operation the third garbage wagon. All further discussion in the matter was dropped, as they said the third wagon can adequately handle the situation.

After a lengthy discussion on the subject of the Cass street paving, it was decided that the best plan to follow would be that used on the eastern end of the street last year, namely to cover the blocks with asphalt. The city engineer said that this would be only temporary relief, but would last for probably two years.

A motion was made to make an application to the state highway commission with the town of Campbell for either the erection of a new bridge, or the repair of the old one running over the black river to French Island at Clinton street. The motion to make application was carried.

Patrolman Alois Yehle, on a motion by Alderman A. R. Kemper, was unanimously elected constable in the ninth ward, to fill a vacancy.

Weather

Forecast for La Crosse and vicinity: Unsettled weather with probably local thunderstorms tonight or Thursday; not much change in temperature.

Wisconsin: Generally fair except probably local thunderstorms tonight or Thursday; not much change in temperature; moderate variable winds.

Minnesota and Iowa: Unsettled weather with probably local thunder showers tonight or Thursday; not much change in temperature; moderate variable winds.

Weather Conditions

The high has moved from the lake region to the eastern states and the weather is fair and clear in that section this morning. The northwestern depression is central this morning in Saskatchewan and another high covers the north Pacific districts. Local showers have occurred during the past 24 hours from Manitoba southward to the central states and rain is falling this morning in the Lake Superior district. The following 24 hour rainfall (in inches) is reported: Devils Lake, 1.12; Moorhead, 1.08; St. Louis, 1.20. The temperature has not changed materially in the central and western districts except in eastern Montana where it is warmer.

The weather will continue unsettled in this section tonight and Thursday and local thunderstorms are probable. The temperature will not change materially.

YOUNG BANDIT'S GANG ARRESTED BY POLICE IN ELABORATE CLUB

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Wholesale robberies, reaching into every section of the city were directed from a suite of elaborately furnished club rooms, the rendezvous of a gang of youthful bandits, the police charged today, following the arrest of seven west side youths.

Two blooded bull pups, "decorations" in the club rooms, savagely resisted an attempt to raid their quarters, but were clubbed into submission.

The arrests were made today when detectives learned that a young men's "social club" was raffling off articles of jewelry to obtain bond for three youths arrested on charges of robbery last week. Some of the jewelry, according to the police, has been identified by hold-up victims. A horse and buggy, found in a barn near the club rooms, is alleged to have been stolen and used to carry off loot.

The persons placed under arrest are: Harry Uphouse, 22; Albert Girsh, 20; William Kramer, 21; John Murphy, 22; William Maloney, Frank Luby and Frank Schwartz.

HUERTA "STALLS" WOULD GAIN TIME

Mexican President's Note to Lind Indefinite but Says He Is "Interested"

WANTS MORE TIME FOR DECISION

Hopes for Better Terms by Delay and Is Uncertain Whether to Resign

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—High officials here today expressed the belief that President Huerta is deliberately "stalling" in negotiations with special Envoy John Lind. Huerta's note to Lind, as partially received, is the basis for this belief. Another installment of Huerta's note, said to be 7,000 words in length, was received today. Because of its length and time required for code translations at Mexico City and the state department, the entire text is not expected to be in the hands of President Wilson before this evening.

Asks More Time

It became known today that in his note, Huerta asks for time for careful and deliberate consideration of the proposal. That he is "greatly interested" in the American representations and is receptive to further explanations from Governor Lind is indicated.

Huerta's note, couched in Latin-American flowery terms, gave rise to the opinion in administration circles here today that the de facto president is attempting to postpone a final decision, first, to make better terms if possible, without peremptorily rejecting the present proposals, and, second, to keep the negotiations in progress until he can decide whether he will resign the provisional presidency in favor of Minister of Foreign Affairs Gimbao and announce his candidacy for the presidency at the October elections. The latter, it is generally believed, will be his course.

Vera Cruz Stirred

VERA CRUZ, Aug. 20.—Via Galveston.—The greatest excitement prevailed here today among both the natives and foreigners because of the conflicting reports from Mexico City and Washington regarding the strained relations between the United States and Mexico. The situation is not improved by the fact that it is almost impossible to obtain reliable information.

The Mexican gunboats in the harbor, by taking on coal and supplies seem to be preparing for any emergency and they all have full complements of men aboard.

The American warships without the harbor also seem to be ready for some move, their officers allowing no shore leave to the men.

It was said today that huge shipments of gold are being made from Mexico City to Vera Cruz.

GRAFTER FORCED TO QUIT

RACINE, Wis., Aug. 20.—The city council has elected Jack Evans, a young mechanic, as alderman of the Fourteenth ward, to fill the vacancy caused by the forced resignation of Alderman Widmer, who as chairman of the license committee, has asked a saloonkeeper to "come across." Widmer's only excuse was that he was drunk.

MACK BUYS LAVAN

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 20.—Johnnie Lavan, shortstop for the St. Louis Browns, will report to Connie Mack here this afternoon and will probably appear in today's game against the Tigers. The Athletics got Lavan at the waiver price.

FIND NO FAMILY OF THE DEAD MAN

Because local authorities are not able to locate any of the relatives of W. Welch, age 38, a plumber who dropped dead at 3:30 yesterday afternoon in the office of the E. F. Falen Plumbing company, funeral arrangements have not been made. Mr. Welch is thought to have been a resident of Hartford, Conn. According to Dr. J. L. Callahan who was called, heart failure caused by alcoholism, caused the death. Before his death Mr. Welch complained of not being well to Mr. Palen.

SECOND VICTIM IS TAKEN BY LOCKJAW

Fred Schnell, Jr., Dies at Hospital as Result of Stepping on Rusty
Nail

WAS INJURED LAST WEDNESDAY

Signs of Tetanus Developed
Monday and Efforts of Physicians Are Unavailing

The second fatality within a month caused by lockjaw, occurred with the death of Fred Schnell, Jr., age 21, at the St. Francis hospital, at 5:59 this morning.

Mr. Schnell was the junior member of the firm of Philip Schnell & Sons' Brickyard, situated in State Road Coulee. He was occupied at the brick yard with his father and brothers in operating a steam engine. While working about the engine last Wednesday morning he accidentally stepped on a rusty nail, which sunk the depth of a half inch through his shoe into the flesh of his foot.

Carefully Dressed

Little thought was paid to the injury otherwise than to dress it carefully. Schnell was able to return to his work. Monday signs of the dreaded disease set in and the young man was rushed to the St. Francis hospital. Dr. Edward Evans and Dr. C. R. Beckman attended him and administered anti-tetanus serum with the hope of saving his life. As the symptoms did not grow worse until several hours later, the physicians were of the opinion that he would recover.

The young man's condition grew slightly worse yesterday morning, although he could take slight nourishment through the mouth. Physicians did not give up hope for his recovery until late last night, when he was taken with convulsions and became unconscious. The convulsions continued until early this morning, when he died.

Survived by Wife

Schnell is survived by his father, Philip Schnell, his wife and infant son. Two brothers also survive, beside his two uncles, John Schnell, city weighmaster, and Fred Schnell, president of the board of public works. He lived near the brick yard.

Schnell was born September 30, 1891. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

$10,000 SLUSH FUND TO FIGHT MEASURE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Cornered after a bitter cross examination, George D. Horning, a local pawnbroker, today admitted to the house lobby investigating committee that instead of $3,574 being raised by pawnbrokers to fight a "loan shark" bill in congress the money lending fraternity had pooled nearly $10,000.

In this respect the witness partially corroborated the testimony of I. H. McMichael, who also swore Representative McDermott had boasted to him of receiving money from such a "slush fund."

Horning insisted that he still had between $5,000 and $6,000 balance of the fund unexpended. He explained the discrepancy in his testimony relative to the fund by claiming they were two separate accounts—one to fight the bill in congress and the other to fight the bill in the courts.

ARREST ALLEGED SLAYER

DANVILLE, Ill., Aug. 20.—Identification of the unknown Knight of Pythias, who was found dead here at the opening of the joint Indiana-Illinois encampment, as Isaiah Avery of Jefferson county, Ind., was followed today by the arrest of Harry Clark of Chicago on a murder charge. Clark, an aeronaut, who has been making daily flights during the encampment, is charged with having murdered Avery and robbed him in an alley in the rear of a saloon, where the body was found.

CAUGHT IN SHAFT

COUDERAY, Wis., Aug. 20.—Charles Johnson, millwright for the Bekkedahl Lumber company, was seriously injured when his clothing caught in some rapidly revolving shafting at the company's plant here. He was hurled the length of the shop.

DIGGS CASE GOES TO JURY BY NIGHT

Attorneys to Spend Day in Argument Before the Judge's Charge

ROCHE BITTER AGAINST PRISONER

Makes Savage Arraignment of Diggs for Relations with Warrington
Girl

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20.—The Diggs case will be in the jury's hands before nightfall. Attorney Roche of the prosecution, resumed his talk to the jury at 10 a. m. today. Attorneys Coghlan and Sullivan will follow him, also for the prosecution. They will be answered by Attorney Devlin and probably by Attorney Woodworth, for the defense. The lawyers on either side will divide two hours and twenty minutes among themselves.

Charge Now Ready

The defense's arguments concluded, the prosecution will be given time for a brief speech in rebuttal, and Judge Van Fleet will then deliver to the jury his charge, already practically completed. He announced, when the testimony was finished, that the case must go to the jury today.

Attorney Roche's speech has consisted of a savage arraignment of Maury Diggs, the young man accused of having violated the Mann federal white slave law by eloping with Miss Marsha Warrington, in company with Drew Caminetti and Miss Lola Norris, from Sacramento, Cal., to Reno, Nevada, where the United States authorities arrested them.

Scores Diggs

The gist of Diggs' testimony, Roche asserted, was that he and Caminetti intended to take the two girls to Reno "to escape prosecution and then return to the shelter of their own homes and to the wives and children they had abandoned, leaving the girls, the victims of their passions, to go down into the depths."

It is the consensus of opinion that Diggs' brutal and indelicate story on the witness stand injured his case. The jurors at any rate, actually gaped in astonishment as he related the scene in his own bedroom with Miss Warrington and told of the latter's contemptuous remark concerning her triumph over the absent wife.

The defense in this case is a remarkable one," said Attorney Roche. "A defense is based ordinarily on a claim of innocence but this one is based on claim of depravity."

"Diggs hides behind his child and his wife's skirt. There has been no possible question since this trial began, but that he coerced Miss Warrington into accompanying him from Sacramento."

Asked Only Marriage

"Miss Warrington did not ask for money or presents from Diggs. She asked only the marriage he had promised. She was preparing for motherhood before she went to Reno. Diggs was responsible. The hope of marriage was the most potent reason he could give her to induce her to accompany him."

"When Diggs got to Reno he intended to abandon the two girls to their fate. When arrested, however, by the same promise of marriage, he tried to induce Miss Warrington to swear falsely."

"Diggs' character is shown by the circumstance that he took Miss Warrington into his own home and into his own wife's sanctuary when his wife was absent. That might have been forgiven but his subsequent request that his wife invite into the same home the girl with whom he had sinned was the most cowardly crime in the calendar. It was a frightful insult to womanhood."

Mrs. Diggs, with her child in her lap, sat beside Diggs during Roche's address. Prosecutor Sullivan, Roche's colleague, slept peacefully throughout the argument. Attorney Devlin opened for the defense at 10:40 a. m.

TO MOVE MINE TOWN

PONTIAC, Ill., Aug. 20.—Practically all the village of Cardiff, scene of the mining explosion in which several men lost their lives a few years ago, has been sold and will be removed to Kankakee, it was announced here today. The mine around which the town was built will be abandoned and the lower levels, where the bodies of the victims of the disaster lie buried under tons of debris, will be sealed.

ESCAPE FOR MOVIES

BEACON, N. Y., Aug. 20.—"With a principal, dressed and selected because of his remarkable resemblance to Harry K. Thaw, and several fast automobiles of the identical type as those used in the sensational escape from Matteawan, a moving picture company commenced the reproduction of the latest thriller. Infinite care was taken by the managers to perfect the "play." Thaw's accomplices were "made up" to fit their descriptions and every detail was pronounced "passed by the censors."

"NO BOOTH—NO EATS" IS ULTIMATUM NAMED BY STATE SUFFRAGISTS

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 20.—Whether to attend the state fair or move into a boarding house is the question that today confronts Wisconsin males.

Following the action of the state fair board, refusing to grant the suffragists a booth in the "political party" section of the exhibits, Badger suffragettes have begun preparations to boycott the fair.

Their motto is: "No booth, no eats."

And "eats" include, they say, all household duties. Unless they are allowed to erect an exhibit, the women will refuse: to cook a meal; to wash a dish; to supervise the laundry bag; sweep; set the alarm clock; put out the cat; fasten windows; turn off the light; darn socks; sew on buttons, or perform any other domestic duty until her husband pledges his word not to attend the state fair.

Right now it looks as though the fair board may have to give in or import strike breakers.

TURNED TURTLE IN THE GALE

Four of the Bodies of the Drowned Are Caught
Beneath Wrecked
Boat

KEOKUK, Iowa, Aug. 20.—Seven persons drowned late yesterday when a terrific wind storm turned the United States steamer Henry Bosse turtle in the middle of a 25-foot channel in the Mississippi river here. Government employees rescued seven other persons. The dead: George Bickel, Carthage, Ill.; William Welsh and wife, St. Louis, Mo.

Thomas Noonan, Keokuk, Ia. Hugh Beaver and sister, Virginia, aged 8, Quincy, Ill. William Jones, Quincy, Ill.

The Henry Bosse was a 175-foot steamer. It was being used in building a dam here.

Government snagboats and professional divers were rushed here today to raise the boat. Only the whale-like hull and tip of the rudder remain above the water and the steamer is a total wreck.

Four of the bodies are under the wrecked steamer, three being carried down with the current. Those killed had little chance to escape. Welch, Jones and Noonan were asleep in the cabin and were penned in when the steamer went over. The steamer was making for shore when the cyclonic wind struck her, whirling her around and sinking her in a few seconds. No such accident has ever been recorded before on the Mississippi.

Captain Gus Seifert, who was thrown seventy-five feet from the wheelhouse, was badly injured and swam to shore with one hand, clinging to a piece of wreckage. Hugh Beaver with his little sister clinging to him, failed in his fight against the waves and they went under as the rescuing party neared them. Others escaped by swimming out from under the boat and clinging to the hull, being taken off by government employees who put out from shore.

FARMERS PLAN TO ERADICATE GRUB

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 20.—A campaign to eradicate the white grub from the fields of the state was started here today at the gathering of farmers held under the auspices of the Madison board of commerce. It was pointed out by speakers that the June bug, the adult stage of the grub, was especially plentiful this year and that owing to this fact, the grubs might be expected in greatly increased numbers next May and June. The attack of the grub is becoming more menacing, it was said, and one estimate placed the amount of damage wrought last year, principally to the corn crop, at four and one-half million dollars.

Resolution were adopted by the farmers urging co-operation in all sections of the state with the efforts of State Orchard Inspector Sanders to stamp out the pest. An appropriation for the fight was made by the last session of the legislature.

TO FIGHT FOR PUGS

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 20.—Active competition between local fight promoters and Chicago Impresarios for the cream of next winter's fist attractions was forecast today when it was announced that the Badger Athletic club of Kenosha had been incorporated with a capital of $1,000 and that the club would erect an arena seating 3,500 persons.

Chicago promoters are said to be backing the Kenosha venture.

FIRE FOUND TOO LATE TO AID

Proprietor Succeeds in Sav-

Dares Not Venture
Back to Rescue Man

J. P. Colleran, aged 58, a farmer residing three and one-half miles from Brownsville and a brother of Dr. W. M. Colleran of La Crosse, was burned to death "early" today when a barn owned by the Smith hotel was destroyed by fire. Colleran, it is said, was asleep in the loft at the time. A team of horses also perished.

Mr. Colleran was in Minneapolis when word of the tragedy reached here but immediately boarded a train, arriving here this afternoon. Collins was sleeping in the hayloft of the barn. It is thought that he was responsible for the fire himself, either through smoking or through lighting a match to make his way to the loft.

The fire was discovered about 3 o'clock this morning by the wife of a man living near the hotel. She awakened her husband, who threw on some clothes and dashed over to the Smith house. He awakened J. H. Smith, proprietor of the hotel.

Clad only in his night shirt, Smith rushed to the barn, and succeeded in saving his own team, although he was severely burned during the rescue. By this time the flames were too fierce to allow anyone to venture into the barn to attempt a rescue of either Collins or his team.

Attempts to put out the fire with buckets of water were made, but the flames had reached every part of the building and the dry barn was a roaring furnace. It is estimated that the flames had a ten minute start before they were discovered.

Collins' body was recovered this morning. The arms were burned away, and the body was charred and blackened past recognition. It will be buried tomorrow in the Brownsville cemetery. Collins was a married man and is survived by his widow and nine children.

FIGHT HIGH LICENSE

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 20.—The fight against the proposed saloon license increase was reopened today when a petition bearing the names of twenty-two hundred residents of the Twenty-second ward here, was presented to Alderman W. C. Wehe of the ward, asking him to abandon his efforts in behalf of the increase. Mr. Wehe proposed to raise the license fee from $200 to $500.

SHERBROOKE, Que., Aug. 20.—Thaw influence and money are the first point in the fight for liberty for Stanford White's murder, this afternoon and instead of Thaw being turned loose to be immediately snatched up and deported as an undesirable immigrant, he will sleep tonight in his cell of the local jail. ## Orders Delay

A peremptory order to delay the case was received from George Lauder Carnegie by Charles D. White, K. C., chief counsel for Thaw. White is an expert on immigration law, and will be the Thaw trump card in the long legal battle that is impending. He said at noon that he would not decide on his course of action until Carnegie and his wife, Thaw's sister, reaches here tonight. Meanwhile, Thaw remains in his cell in the hospital in the old stone prison on top of the hill here. He is very cheerful. He declared to a United Press correspondent that he was satisfied that he would never be taken back to Matteawan.

"I will demonstrate to the world, this time," he said, "that I am and have been sane."

Thaw's lawyers went to the jail at noon to have him sign an affidavit which will accompany the habeas corpus proceedings. They said they would ask Judge Globensky late this afternoon to postpone all proceedings.

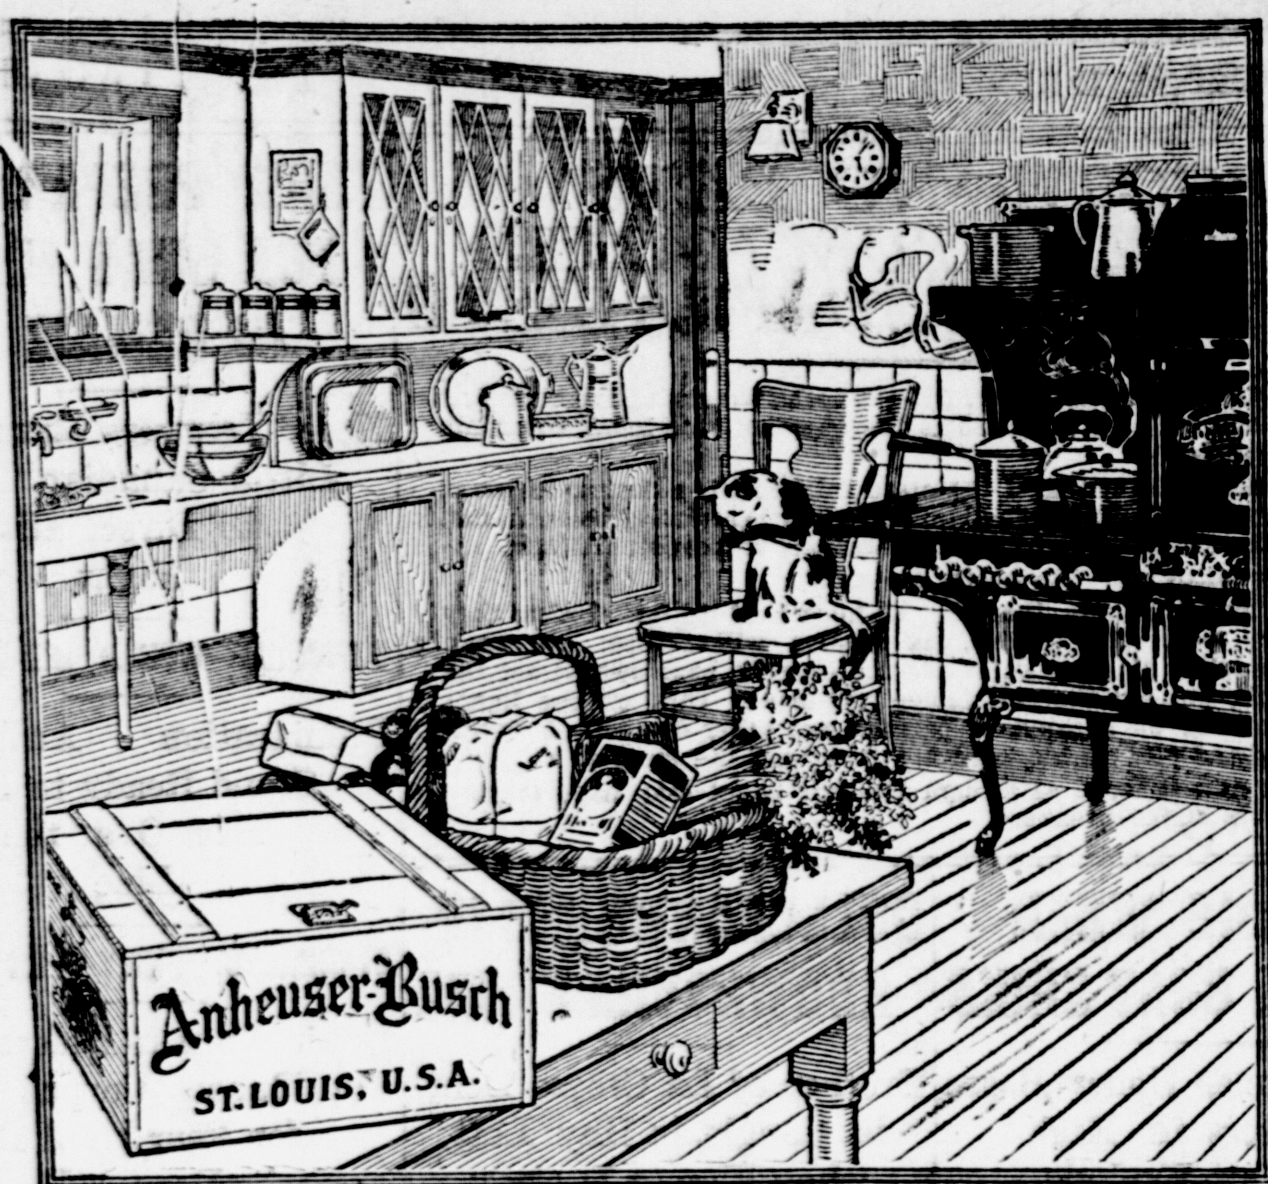

"We would like a week to familiarize ourselves with this case," said White, "but we will not complain if we only get one day."

Cheer Thaw

Thaw has put this city on the globe map and its 18,000 citizens are grateful to him. A crowd of more than 1,000 hangs around the jail cheering and applauding him. They cannot see him but he can hear their shouts and he was correspondingly much more composed today, seemingly believing that the people here

FOR THE NECK AND SHOULDERS

A Free Prescription That Instantly
Obliterates Blemishes, Tan, Freckles
High Collars

The Dutch neck and the evening gown too often expose the discoloration and blemishes of high collars or the effects of tan and freckles. It is easy to overcome these conditions and make the neck beautiful and white and soft and smooth—to overcome, in other words, every blemish and make the low neck as attractive as it is comfortable. This preparation can also be used on the shoulders and face, and it is marvelously effective to beautify the hands and arms.

If you want to try it, go to your druggist and get a one ounce bottle of Kulux Compound. Pour the entire contents into a two ounce bottle, add quarter ounce witch hazel, then fill with water. Prepare this at your own home. One application will delight you. It is deliciously cool and soothing and it is not affected by perspiration. It will not rub off.

If you put it on one hand only, or on one side of the neck and note the difference, you will see the wonderful change it makes instantly. The results are immediate and continued use of this preparation will keep your skin as soft and smooth as a child's.

KICK ON JOHNSON

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Vaudeville artists and ministers have joined hands in protesting to the managers of West End music halls against the appearance of Jack Johnson there next week, it became known today. The ministers say it will be "immoral," while the artists claim it will amount to a "degradation of the music halls."

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

A QUESTION OF CO-OPERATION

By JANE OSBORN

(Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

There had been rumors all winter that old Baily College was to become co-educational. For two centuries its lichen-grown brownstone walls had stood firm against the intrusion of petticoats, and now just because of the Sibell-Ashley bequests of several millions all this fine tradition was tottering.

No one opposed it more bitterly than did Dudley Tilbury, the registrar and treasurer of Baily. He was a bachelor of thirty-five, who in spite of the fact that he was undeniably good looking and had, when he chose, very likable manners, was the college woman hater.

"If you accept this gift of $3,000,000 on the condition that the college be opened to women, Mr. Chairman," he told the college president at a trustee's meeting one day in the spring, "I, as treasurer, shall refuse to record the bequest in the college books."

The president took his piece of insubordination good naturedly and, after the meeting, persuaded the registrar that as long as it was decided upon to open the college to women he had better make the best of it, and Dudley Tilbury, more than ever a woman hater, reluctantly entered the $3,000,000 on the college books and consented to stay.

"However," he said as he closed the books in which he had made the entry, "I absolutely refuse to have anything to do with the registration of the new students."

The college president looked over the top of his glasses. "Well, I'm blessed, Tilbury," he said. "We all know you are a woman hater, but having to take the registration of a few undergraduate country girls isn't going to hurt you."

But Tilbury was insistent, and the fact that he had refused to register the girls went around the faculty during the summer vacation as a new joke. The college president said no more about it to Tilbury, and when he returned in the autumn to his duties on the first day of college, he was mildly anxious to know what arrangement had been made.

As he passed across the campus from his rooms in the college dormitory he caught a sight on the campus that took his breath away. There were actually some of the co-eds. He hadn't thought before how they would look on the campus.

He pushed his way into the registrar's office. He had been there a day or so before to make sure that everything was in readiness. But as he opened the door he saw that a change had been made. There was a desk placed on the opposite wall about twelve feet away from his. "That's strange," he thought, and then the door that led into the president's office opened and a young woman passed into his room. She was hatless. He noticed that she was dressed in quiet tones in a dress that hung gracefully to her figure.

Who was she? Tilbury didn't have long to conjecture. She came up to him unaffectedly and with the assurance of one who has been the first in the field.

"This is Mr. Tilbury, isn't it?" she said. "This is Miss Gray. The president has appointed me to help you with the registration of women students—your assistant, I believe."

Mr. Tilbury was almost overcome, and yet as this undeniably charming young woman went over to her desk and opened it he couldn't, even to himself, resent her presence. Yet, of course, there was some mistake about it. Women had never been employed in Baily college.

Without seeming to be in any great excitement, he paused at his desk to set his pens to rights and then hurried into the president's office. The president was very busy, as was natural on the first day of college, and took no time for detailed explanation. "Miss Gray is to be your assistant," said the president. "She will relieve you of the registration of women."

When Tilbury came back to his office he found one of the new "co-eds" waiting at Miss Gray's desk. Tilbury noticed the contrast of the crudity of the co-ed and the softness and finish of the new assistant, Miss Gray.

The first two or three days of college the registrar's office is always too busy for thought of much else but work. Tilbury was busy from 9 in the morning till late at night, and his assistant was also busy. He didn't have much time to think about her except to wonder how the president had ever had the temerity to impose a woman upon him, and to wonder why it was that he found her presence delightful.

One morning after she had been there two weeks, Tilbury found himself wondering, as he crossed the campus, how his assistant would be dressed that morning. He knew the different dresses she had worn by heart. There was the black clingy dress she had worn the first day he saw her. She looked older but more self-possessed and alluring in that. There was the dark blue dress that looked a little military—she was wonderfully brisk and invigorating that way. Then one day she had worn white. Then she looked very much of a girl, though Tilbury knew she must be thirty. He wondered why he noticed these things so much.

Then Tilbury stopped with a shudder. "Confound it," he muttered to himself, "I'll bet I am in love." He remembered back in his poetry-reading days to have been in this mood

There's a world of satisfaction in buying Uneeda Biscuit because you know you will get what you want—soda crackers that are oven-fresh, crisp, clean, appetizing and nourishing.

Uneeda Biscuit are always uniform in quality—they are always alike in crispness, in flavor—they are soda crackers you can depend upon. And all because Uneeda Biscuit are uncommon soda crackers packed in an uncommon way.

once or twice before. But then she was quite impossible. There could have been nothing permanent about it then. But with Miss Gray he was to see her day after day—was to grow more familiar with that ever-varying voice of hers, to grow more accustomed to seeing those capable, slender white hands of hers arranging the papers and cards that he handled. He was to see her writing on the papers he worked over, to feel her touch and eyes on everything he did.

He wondered if she were poor and had to work. She had never said anything about herself.

A month later Mr. Tilbury was sure he was in love. So definite were his feelings, in fact, that the question of co-education at Baily was of no import. He could pass a dozen girls on the campus without feeling the slightest annoyance. Miss Gray had tried occasionally to talk him into approval of the new system. She said that she had heard that he opposed it.

She was sitting at his side late one afternoon, verifying some of the records Tilbury wanted for the president. It was a statement of the use to which the Sibell-Ashley bequest had been put.

"That Ashley bequest is to be doubled," said Tilbury. "It is a wonderful thing for the college. If I had money I should want to spend it that way, too. The education of the young men and women of the country is one of the most beneficial works that can be done." Tilbury was glad that Miss Gray didn't gloat over him because he had said "young women." It was the day before their Thanksgiving vacation—their first separation—and he had been trying all day to nerve himself to a confession.

He noticed her hands playing over the papers at his side, he saw the jade ring on her finger—the whiteness of her hands.

"Miss Gray," he said, suddenly nerving himself and pressing his hand over the hand that wore the jade ring. "We know each other so little and yet so well. Can you forgive me? I must confide in some one. I have never known a woman like you before and I swear I have never loved—"

Miss Gray did something unexpected. She leaned nearer to Dudley Tilbury. No one but Miss Gray with her self-possession, could have done it just that way and then she laughed.

"And you were the woman hater and would have kept the Ashley bequest out of Baily if you could, and you wouldn't register the women students, Dudley Tilbury." She had inclined her head close to him and yet he felt that she was far away from him. "So I came and tried to convert you—you the woman hater, the invulnerable Dudley Tilbury, Sibell-Ashley—whom you call Miss Gray—came with her millions."

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Birthday Gift That Jimmy Bought

THE children were smiling. Tomorrow was grandma's birthday. Grandma was to have a birthday dinner. Jack and Evelyn would go to the dinner. Besides that, each had nice presents with which to surprise her. They had saved their money to buy them. Of course daddy teased them a great deal about these presents.

"I hope," said he, "that your present won't be like Jimmy's present for his papa. Jimmy's papa was going to have a birthday. Jimmy's mother had said to him, 'Now, Jimmy, I think it would be very nice for you to save your money and give your father a nice gift on his birthday.'"

"Jimmy was quite taken with the idea. He went shopping with his mother when she went out to buy a pair of slippers as her present for father. They visited several shops and walked all over them, but there wasn't anything that Jimmy could buy for a dollar which he thought would do."

"When a little boy has taken a dollar out of his savings bank to spend on somebody else he is apt to be very careful what he buys. So Jimmy couldn't make up his mind what to buy."

"I am afraid you will have to do your shopping by yourself after this," Jimmy's mother said. "I am tired having the shop people show us all they have to sell without buying something."

"So the next day Jack started out alone, and on his way to the shop Jimmy met Polly. Polly was the little girl who lived next door, and they were great chums."

"Where are you going, Jimmy?" asked Polly.

"I'm going a-shopping," Jimmy answered.

"Why, how funny!" exclaimed Polly. "I didn't know boys shopped."

"Oh, yes," Jimmy replied; "I'm going to buy my father a birthday present."

"Oh, are you?" said Polly. "Well, I thought only ladies went shopping."

"Well, mother went with me yesterday, but she couldn't go along today."

"Oh, couldn't she?" Polly cried. "Then I'll go and help you shop."

"Jimmy thought this might be better, so he told Polly to come along."

"Polly did have some odd ideas about buying presents. She stopped at a beautiful fairy book."

"Why," she cried, "here's a perfectly grand fairy book! Let's buy that for your daddy. He can have a lovely time reading it to us evenings."

"And that was what Jimmy bought for his father's birthday gift. But I hope nobody buys daddy a fairy book for his birthday."

THE HOUSE OF LORDS MUST GO

That picturesque anachronism, the British House of Lords, seems bound to commit self-murder. For the second time in six months it has rejected the Liberal government's bill for Irish Home rule after discussing the possible expedient of defeating the Commons' will by adjournment. The Tory gift is for concealing the head ostrich wise in the sand and then declaring nasally that what can't be seen there survives unimpaired—only this happens to be the twentieth century. That, precisely, is why the Lords must sooner or later be abolished as a legislative body, quite as Premier Asquith threatens. Great Britain is today a more radical country than ours, and though a bicameral system ought to be and probably will be conserved, there is every reason to expect the upsetting of the old notion of Peers bequeathing political functions to their sons and grandsons. If the Lords cannot transmit intelligence how can they hope to transmit legislative power? The ownership of a shockingly large proportion of the land—too much of which is withdrawn from production that grouse may be shot when cool weather stirs the leisured Briton out of his summer sluggishness—is power enough for the Peers to wield; the sooner a reasonable substitute is found for the traditional way of providing a reasonable substitute viding an "upper house" in Britain, the better it will be for popular government. Here in America we have at last won the battle for the direct election of Senators. The reform of the British senate is the next number on the program of world democracy.

—Collier's.

"WHY DO THE HEATHEN RAGE"

The Madison State Journal has published a series of logical editorials concerning opposition on the part of railroad and other public utility interests to the federal proposal that the government build and operate the Alaskan railroads.

It is not surprising that capitalists interested in Alaska railroad investments, present and in prospect, should object to the government taking over that profitable field, but it is significant of ulterior motives that railroad investors in no way directly concerned with Alaska should "view with alarm" this proposed federal enterprise. The "Journal" twits these men with being actuated by the fear that the government management in Alaska would prove so effective as to result eventually in government ownership of the roads in the United States. If not that, why the "alarm?"

Well may these capitalists object. The government has operated the Panama road with undoubted success. It was this fact that induced Senator La Follette, author of the Alaskan idea, to suggest that the government assume the task of railroad building in Alaska. Senator Poindexter, who is now pushing a bill for Alaskan public ownership, in addition to recognizing the influence this would have in opening new coal fields and breaking the mine owners' railroad control of fuel prices, urges that government ownership and a square deal for all shippers would result in a wonderful and soundly-competitive development of Guggenheim-ridden Alaska. And back of his position is the impregnable fortification of fact that his undertaking is no experiment, but a policy the soundness of which has been demonstrated by other governments and corroborated by Uncle Sam in Panama.

Therefore do "the heathen rage and imagine vain things?"

GIVE THE TRADE WHAT IT WANTS

George Kennan, staff writer for the Outlook, has in a recent issue an article on our trade with China which is of interest to all concerns exporting their goods beyond the national boundaries. The point made in this article is that American business men in the far east are being beaten by the Germans and the Japanese simply because the latter take the trouble to humor the whims and notions of their oriental customers.

The point is illustrated by a story from which the title of the article—"Screws in Blue Paper and Our Trade With China"—is taken. It seems that some time ago a Chinese wholesale dealer went to an American commercial agent in one of the treaty ports of China and announced that he was about to place an order for a large quantity of assorted screws. He was shown samples, given prices and seemed to be satisfied with both. He objected, however, to the color of the paper in which the screws were wrapped. This paper was brown. He wanted blue.

Instead of humoring him in the whim and telling him that he would make the change desired the American agent attempted to argue. The result was that the Chinese merchant went to a German who told him that while he could not deliver the screws, in blue paper immediately he would if given a little time. He secured the order and the man's steady custom. The preference of the customer for blue paper is, of course, hard to understand. After all, he was buying screws, not paper, as the American pointed out. At the same time, those asking for trade cannot make over the peculiar orientals to suit themselves. The Germans and Japanese don't try. They pleasantly adjust themselves to the most mysterious and nonsensical requests.

All over the world consular agents report that American exporters show a pronounced unwillingness to respect local prejudices and whimsicalities in the little things that make for friendship and good will. If this country is to have a large foreign trade it must change its tactics or be outstripped by those willing to take their customers as they find them.

Increased Love

Wife (pleadingly)—I'm afraid, Jack, you do not love me any more—anyway, not as well as you used to. Husband—Why?

Wife—Because you always let me get up to light the fire now.

Husband—Nonsense, my love. Your getting up to light the fire makes me love you all the more.

The detective may be an earnest seeker, but he doesn't always find.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Hardly a Compliment

There is a young man in New York who is undoubtedly still wondering whether he has an unusually large foot or whether a certain German lady of generous dimensions from Jersey is troubled with near-sightedness.

The woman in question boarded a New York bound ferry boat with a big, heavy valise. Apparently much fatigued from her efforts, she threw herself into a seat, landing her bulky grip squarely upon the toes of a young man next to her. He responded with a look of suppressed rage and pain, and then shoved the valise aside, unnoticed by the woman.

A few moments later, when the ferry reached its slip, the young man was suddenly amazed to behold the stout lady fumbling about with her hand on his foot. Thoroughly aroused at this liberty, he was about to demand an explanation, when the woman, with a look of great embarrassment, exclaimed: "Ach! Excuse me, it looked chust like mine bag."

An Accidental Accident

Magistrate—You broke a mantelpiece ornament on your wife's head. What have you got to say for yourself?

Prisoner—It was a pure accident.

Magistrate—An accident? What! Didn't you intend to hit your wife?

Prisoner—Yes; but I didn't mean to break the ornament.

Clever Bargainers

Past stall after stall went the rich merchant followed by a footman in smart livery. It was an annual village bazaar.

"Ah, Mr. Fitzbrendon," said a really sweet and charming lady at one of the stalls, "and what are you going to buy? Dear old auntie and I am running this table and we have home made cakes, aprons, penwipers, and—"

"Yes," said F., "and I'll buy just one of each. But do you sell kisses at your stall?"

"Oh, certainly!" came the ready reply. "One guinea each!"

"Right!" replied the autocrat.

"Then I'll take a couple—and good measure, please!"

"Aunt," remarked the fair and dainty damsel, "forward, please! Two kisses for this gentleman!"

For a moment the man of means was nonplussed, but only for a moment. Then he turned to his servant:

"James," he said coolly, "just take this purchase, please!"

A Suggestive Question

"I say, mamma," said little Tommy, "is it true that when you first met papa you had fallen into the water and he jumped in and saved you?"

"Quite true, my dear," replied mamma, with a smile.

"Then I wonder if that's why papa won't allow me to learn how to swim."

Paddy's Hat

The prosecution had a strong case against Paddy. His hat, which all the inhabitants could identify, had been found on the premises. Paddy, however, denied all knowledge of the headgear, and swore that he was not within a mile of the place at the time of the outrage, and so well did his witnesses corroborate his statement that he was able to prove an alibi.

Paddy was found "Not guilty," but seemed reluctant to leave the dock.

The magistrate, thinking he did not understand the verdict, explained: "Well, my man, you are discharged, you need not wait."

"If ye please, yer honor," replied Paddy, "I'm waiting for me hat."

The young man who succeeds in marrying a whole hearted girl is playing in great luck. The average girl's heart has been broken three or four times.

Now Well After Using Eckman's Alternative

The makers of Eckman's Alternative, which is doing so much good for Lung Trouble, are continually in receipt of wonderful reports of recoveries brought about solely through the use of this medicine. Investigate the case of this writer, who used Eckman's Alternative and who is today enjoying good health:

421 Second Ave., Aurora, Ill.

"Gentlemen: Pardon me for not writing sooner, but I wanted to see if I would stay cured. I can now truthfully say I am perfectly well. I have no pain, no cough, no night sweats, no hay fever. Since a child of two years I have been ailing with lung trouble, which grew worse as I grew older. At the age of fourteen the doctor said if I could not be sent south I would surely die of Consumption. Every winter I would be sure to have either Bronchitis, Pleurisy or Pneumonia. I had Typhoid-Pneumonia one time. I had catarrh of the stomach and bowels and had Hay fever for the last few years; but have not anything of the kind this year. I will answer all letters sent to me, asking a history of my case, from any one suffering with lung trouble."

(Affidavit) ETNA PLATH.

(Six years later reports still well.)

Eckman's Alternative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious in cases of severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain narcotics, poisons or habit forming drugs. For sale by G. E. Mariner, Chas. Beyschlag and other leading druggists. Write the Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet telling of recoveries and additional evidence.

THE RED BUTTON

Copyright, The Hobbs-Wincent Company

By Will Irwin

"Juan and I are about of a size. I am large for a woman. He is small for a man. We do not resemble each other in the upper part of the face, but our mouths and chins are very much alike. It was one of our games at home to dress in each other's clothes. I would put on his ulster, pull his hat far down over my eyes, and fool people into believing that I was he. Further, his voice is light and he can talk in falsetto. This was an old family game. We played eternally on the resemblance in the charades and theatricals that English people are always getting up."

"This was our plan: we were to change clothes. We had heard people singing in the parlor that evening. The boarders all knew that Juan sometimes sang falsetto in fun. I was to watch my chance when the hall was vacant, pass the parlor, sing just a little in my own voice to make them believe I was Juan singing falsetto, and go to his room, where I was to wait. The night was rainy. It was natural, therefore, that I should be bundled up in a mackintosh and have my hat pulled down over my eyes."

"Dressed in my clothes, Juan was to enter Captain Hanska's room, get the jewels, leave by the door, go down the stairs, and join me. I used sometimes to get a little outdoor exercise in the early morning when I need not fear meeting Captain Hanska, and when most of the city lights are out, so that the eyes have less strain. If Mrs. Moore waked, looked out, and saw Juan in my clothes, she would think it was I going for my exercise and take no alarm."

"In case Juan failed, he was to go back to my room and telephone to me, speaking Spanish and imitating my voice. Then, still dressed as Juan, I was to return to Mrs. Moore's early next morning and change clothes—but that part of our plan does not matter."

"We began everything just as we planned. As I went down the stairs, I passed Mrs. Moore. In the hall, I saw a young man—Mr. Wade, I believe. I showed myself at the door and looked in, and sang a little. By the way they laughed and spoke, I knew that I had deceived them."

"I went straight to Juan's rooms. The elevator man in his hotel was fooled just as much as the boarders. It seems, I waited there a long time. Then Juan telephoned to me, talking in Spanish and calling me Juan, as if he were I. He said that Captain Hanska had been murdered and for me to come at once to him—that he needed me—he said it all as a hysterical woman would. Somehow I managed to do as he asked. I had to pass Captain Hanska's door. I heard people making a noise inside. Of course I did not enter. But right by the door I saw something bright. I knew it at once—it was one of my diamond buckles—one of the jewels which Captain Hanska had stolen from me. I picked it up, and went on to my room. Juan was there—in my dress,

He kept me from fainting or dying while we changed back to our own clothes. I know the rest from Juan. Shall I tell it?"

(At about this point occurred one of those eruptions of expletives, broken sentences, pleas, prayers, which always mar a confession for legal purposes, and is, therefore, edited out by the police before the finished typewritten statement goes back to the witness for his signature. This extraneous matter, you see, tends to create in the minds of unthinking persons a false sentiment for the criminal.)

"Juan said that he waited until after one o'clock. The house was quiet. From the window of the lumber-room he crawled to the fire escape. That window had a spring-catch—you had only to pull it down and it locked of itself. Since he intended to leave Captain Hanska's room by the door, he closed this window behind him in order to cover up his tracks. That window of the Captain's room which led to the fire escape was open for ventilation. The rain was drifting through it. It occurred to Juan that everything would be safer if he closed it—he was afraid that a gust of wind might blow spray into Captain Hanska's face, and wake him. He did that; and he fastened the sash with the catch. Captain Hanska was asleep, breathing very heavily. Remember that."

"You have seen the room. The bureau, where I found the strong-box, was in the corner farthest from the window which Juan had just entered. Between it and the window were a table and Captain Hanska's bed. Juan carried our pocket electric torch. He turned it on the inside of the top bureau drawer. The box was there. Also, the key was in its lock. Juan thought it would be better to take the jewels out and leave the box. By doing that he could find whether the bill of sale was with the jewels, or whether he would have to search further for it. That was his great mistake. It was a trick box. Inside was an alarm-bell which rang whenever the cover was lifted."

"Juan opened it; the bell rang. Captain Hanska awoke at once. Juan had no time to move, before Captain Hanska pressed the button at the head of his bed and turned on the electric light. It must have bewildered him for a moment when he saw what appeared to be a woman standing by his bureau—but Juan held the strong-box in his hands. When he saw that, the Captain came at him. Juan is a small man. Captain Hanska was big and very powerful. Just then, Juan saw on the table between them that great knife."

"Juan is a swordsman. He picked up the knife to stop the Captain by threatening him with it—he held the point toward his chest. Captain Hanska was a brave man, and very violent in anger. He had one of his terrible spells of temper now. He began to curse Juan. And then his hands went up to his head all of a sudden, and he tumbled over with all his great weight on the point of the knife. Juan did not thrust—he is sure now he did not thrust—he only held the knife steady—but it pierced Captain Hanska through."

(In this place, Detective Kennedy had to edit the statement a great deal in order to make it seemly for the official archives.)

We will leave for a moment the police statement.

"Fell on it?" asked Martin McGee. "What's that you're trying to give us?"

"On my soul and my mother's," solemnly declared Miss Estrilla. "Don't you see—can't you understand? A doctor in Port of Spain had warned him of it—Juan has done nothing since—nothing—but read medical books—he was dead before he touched the point of the knife—if Juan stabbed him, he stabbed a corpse—Captain Hanska died of apoplexy caused by his anger!"

SOCIETY OF DEAF CONVENES

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 20.—With hundreds of delegates representing nearly every state in the union in attendance, the convention of the National Association of the Deaf opened here today. The session will continue for one week. The first session included addresses and a business meeting. All business was transacted in the sign language. During the week Mrs. Elmer E. Bates, official interpreter, will read a paper entitled "Signs and Signs," in which she will give a history of the development of the sign language from earliest time up to the present day. Papers read today showed the stages in the development of a universal sign language which makes it possible today for a native of any nationality to converse easily with natives of another nationality.

OPENS "WILD WEST" WEEK

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Aug. 20.—Cheyenne today forgot this is the year 1913 and harked back to the days when it was the extreme frontier post of the then great unexplored west. The occasion was the sixteenth annual frontier days celebration which began today and will continue through Saturday evening. During the four days Indians from the agencies of Nebraska and Wyoming, cowboys and cowgirls, all accounted in the garb worn in the old days, will hold full sway. To see them in the riding, roping, shooting and other contests fully thirty thousand visitors are here.

There were eighteen events on today's program which included a half mile foot race in which only full blooded Indians can enter; cow-pony, burro and wild horse races; fancy riding and driving; shooting and roping exhibitions of all kinds. Several thousand dollars in prizes will go to the winners.

It is easier to get a tip on the races than to collect anything on it.

IN The WORLD OF WOMEN

Mrs. Jesse P. Williams of Atlanta, Ga., is active manager and owner of a 200 mile interstate railroad which runs from Richland, Ga., to Carabell, Fla. In addition she owns a steamboat line and is one of the largest land owners in the country, controlling a quarter of a million acres of farming and timber land in Georgia.

Because men refuse to keep off the special morning street cars that are run for women only, the London county council has asked the board of trade to sanction a new by-law making it an offense punishable by fine for male persons to ride on the special cars.

Because her husband is a candidate for Governor on the progressive ticket in New Jersey, Mrs. Everett Colby has resigned as chairman of the legislative committee of the New Jersey State Suffrage association. Mrs. Colby's resignation is based on the contention that the association does not favor partisanship.

Miss Grace Abbott, Chicago, of the Immigrant's Protective league, has been engaged to take up the work for a similar organization in Massachusetts.

The Russian Duma has approved, in principle, of the introduction of women factory inspectors, it having been officially announced that the government intends to take up the question of women inspectors for certain industries.

Statistics compiled by the Michigan superintendent of public instruction show that there are six women to every man in the teaching profession in that state. The average wage is $44 per month.

GENERATIONS TO CELEBRATE

KITTANNING, Pa., Aug. 20.—Five generations of the Mansfield family here will hold a celebration and reunion just as soon as "the fifth generation" is able, it was announced today. William Mansfield is two weeks old today. Two grandmothers, two great grandmothers, one great great grandmother and one great great great grandmother were present at his birth.

DOUBLE FUNERAL IS HELD TODAY

Mrs. Bartl Jansky and Mrs. Frank Jansky, Toadstool Victims, Buried

A double funeral for Mrs. Bartl Jansky and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Frank Jansky, victims of toadstool poisoning, was held this afternoon at 2:30 from the residence, 1231 Johnson street.

Mrs. Frank Jansky died at the Lutheran hospital at 8:15 Monday night, closely following the death of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Bartl Jansky in the same hospital. Both were in a partially unconscious state several hours before death resulted.

Surviving Mrs. Bartl Jansky besides her husband, are six children. The children are: Mrs. E. C. Duncan, St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. Harry Kohn, Los Angeles, Cal.; Miss Josephine Anna Jansky, La Crosse, and Messrs. Joseph, Frank and Michael Jansky of this city. Mrs. Frank Jansky is survived by an infant daughter, besides her husband.

Following the services at the house, which were largely attended by friends, burial was made in Oak Grove cemetery.

MANGNER-DWYER NUPTIALS TODAY

Miss Elizabeth Mangner, 1517 Prospect street, and T. P. Dwyer of this city, were married at the St. James church at 8:15 this morning by Rev. Ambrose Murphy.

Both the bride and Mr. Dwyer are popular and well known north side young people. Mr. Dwyer is a fireman on the Burlington railroad. Miss Catherine Mangner was the bride-maid and Nicholas McGaffey acted as best man. Following the ceremony at the church a wedding breakfast was served for the bridal party and the friends of the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwyer will leave today for a wedding trip when they will visit at New York city, Logansport and Chicago. They will be at home to their friends at 1522 George street, after September 1.

JEALOUSY CAUSES DOUBLE SHOOTING

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Jealous over attentions alleged to have been paid his young wife, Anna, by another man, Jacob Ribowski, 28, Chicago Heights, attempted to kill her early today and then ended his own life by firing a bullet through his brain. A bullet penetrated Mrs. Ribowski's skull behind the ear and physicians declare that she will die.

Many a man's will is broken long before he has made one.

FRIENDS EXPECT MUCH OF MARTIN H. GLYNN IF HE BECOMES NEW YORK GOVERNOR; HE HAS AN EXCELLENT PUBLIC RECORD

Mr. and Mrs. Martin H. Glynn and their home at Cedar Hill, N. Y.

If the outcome of the present political situation in New York shall be the raising to the governorship of Lieut.-Gov. Martin H. Glynn, the friends of that gentleman predict a splendid administration. His public record is clean. He is a former member of congress, a former vice president of the United States commission at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, former comptroller of the state of New York, an attorney and counselor-at-law, and editor and proprietor of the Times-Union, of Albany, New York.

FIGHT HARD FOR THAW

NEW YORK STATE AUTHORITIES WILL MAKE EVERY EFFORT TO BRING BACK WHITE SLAYER

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 20.—John B. Riley, superintendent of the state prison department, said today that the New York authorities would make every possible effort to obtain Harry K. Thaw's extradition from Canada and that arrangements had been made to get possession of Thaw in Vermont or New Hampshire, should the dominion authorities deport him and send him into the United States on the border of one of those states instead of New York.

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN

The seventh annual interstate tennis tournament given by the Riverside club of this city opens at 3 p. m., Monday. Several players are already in the city and the remainder of the many coming will arrive by noon Monday. The tournament annually attracts players from Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin and the club endeavors each year to provide plenty of entertainment aside from the tennis.

The year an automobile trip will be given Monday evening in and around the town and on Tuesday evening a lawn party at the home of J. S. Earl. The usual tournament ball will be omitted this season owing to the inability of many of the contestants to attend a dance and play on the following day.

The Prairie du Chien baseball team played at the Biscobel fair Thursday afternoon against a Madison team, winning a goose egg, while the capital city players were securing seven tallies.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Day spent last week in Richland county where Mr. Day was attending to the wants of his customers and Mrs. Day visited friends in Richland Center.

TWO ARE KILLED IN DAKOTA CRASH

Local Railroad Men Hear of Wreck of G. N. Oriental Limited Last Night

Local railroad men were disturbed today by news of a wreck of the Oriental Limited, the Great Northern's fastest train, last night at Crary, N. D., in which two unidentified men were killed and twenty others were injured. The train was derailed and crashed into an elevator at Crary with disastrous results. The Oriental Limited is a coast train and is scheduled to pass through La Crosse on its way to Chicago at 12:23 at noon, but today it was about forty-five minutes late.

According to advices here, Engineer J. A. Sargent prevented a more serious wreck by staying with his engine and bringing the train to a stop after the tender and three coaches had left the track. Fire destroyed the coaches.

Amidst the screaming of the injured and the imminent danger of many being burned alive, those who had escaped worked heroically and carried everyone out of the wrecked coaches before the flames had gained much headway. The tender and three coaches plowed through the elevator, which was standing near the track, causing a panic among the passengers in the smoker.

The engine jumped the track just after passing a switch at the entrance of the yards. The engine remained upright but the baggage and mail cars turned over on their sides. The two dead men are believed to have been tramps riding the "blind baggage." Fireman H. Flakinger sustained injuries which may cause his death. The rest of those injured will recover.

LOCAL BANKS IN GOOD CONDITION

The reports filed with the state bank commissioner, pursuant to his call issued recently, show La Crosse banks to be in unusually good condition.

Despite the heavy drains on the deposits, due to the immense amount of building being done here, the decrease in deposits between June 4, 1913 and August 9, 1913, have amounted to only $95,156.01.

The Batavian National bank is the only institution showing an increase in deposits, that institution having gained $57,505.87.

The biggest decrease in deposits is registered by the National bank, the amount drawn out amounting to $130,594.58.

KEEP NET TITLE

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 20.—Marice McLoughlin and T. C. Bundy of California, today held their title against J. R. Strachan and C. J. Griffin of San Francisco, defeating the challengers for the national doubles championships in straight sets, before an enthusiastic society gallery on the grandstand court at the Casino. The score: 6-4, 7-5, 6-1.

FIND GRIGGS' BODY

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 20.—The body of George W. Griggs, millionaire flour and feed merchant who jumped to his death from the high bridge Sunday night, was found by the police early today in the Mississippi river. Letters from physicians found on the body indicate Griggs was despondent because of disease.

Women who are in favor of the eight hour day should avoid getting married.

RASH ON ARMS ITCHED AND BURNED

Especially at Night. At Times Got No Sleep At All. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

400 South Hermitage Ave., Chicago, Ill. — "I was attacked with a breaking out on the inside of my arms. It was a small rash or pimple and it itched and burned, especially at night, so that before I knew it I had made myself sore. I had to wear the finest kind of cotton underwear, no woolen at all, because the least thing irritated it and made it much worse. The rash itched and smarted until at times I got no sleep at all.

"I had this trouble and took treatments for about one year, but they only gave me relief while taking them. Then I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I got relief right away. I made a good strong lather of Cuticura Soap and washed myself every night and morning, drying myself with a good soft towel, and then applied the Cuticura Ointment. In three months I was a well man again." (Signed) H. W. Foley, Nov. 5, 1912.

TO REMOVE DANDRUFF

Prevent dry, thin and falling hair, allay itching and irritation, and promote the growth and beauty of the hair, frequent shampoos with Cuticura Soap, assisted by occasional dressings with Cuticura Ointment, afford a most effective and economical treatment. A single set is often sufficient. Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address: post-offices, Dept. T, Boston.

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

FOREIGNER TO SPEAK

NOTED PROFESSOR FROM CHRISTIANIA UNIVERSITY WILL PREACH AT BETHEL LUTHERAN CHURCH

Professor Birnt Stoylen, instructor in practical theology at Christiania University, Norway, will preach at the Bethel Lutheran church next Sunday morning. The services will begin at 10:30 o'clock.

Professor Stoylen was invited to this country by the Lutheran Free church to give lectures at the summer school for ministers at the Augsburg seminary at Minneapolis, Minn., from August 5 to August 14, and also to visit congregations where he is invited. He delivered thirteen lectures at the Augsburg seminary and since arriving in this country has visited several Lutheran congregations in Minnesota, the Dakotas and on the Pacific coast. In addition to being one of the ablest professors at the University of Christiania, Professor Stoylen is a powerful and interesting speaker.

OFFER DOTY JOB IN CALIFORNIA

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 20.—(Special.)—F. E. Doty, secretary of the state civil service commission since its inception in 1905, has been tendered a position as secretary of the Los Angeles civil service commission of California. The position carries with it a salary of $4,000 annually. The present salary of the secretary of the Wisconsin commission is $3,000. It is reported on good authority at the capitol today that Mr. Doty intends to accept the new position. A special meeting of the commission has been called for Saturday to consider the matter.

WALKS LONG WAY WITH BROKEN BONE

After falling down a deep path on Granddahl bluff last week and sustaining a broken collarbone, Miss Jeanette Atkinson, 1419 Kane street, walked a mile and a half to the nearest telephone to call her father to tell him of the accident. With a party of girl friends, Miss Atkinson had gone to the bluffs on a picnic. Dr. Sara Nimocks was called. Miss Atkinson is getting along nicely.

WOULD KEEP CARAVELS

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Protest against the removal of the Columbus Cafavels Pinta, Santa Maria and Niña—exhibits at the Chicago World's fair, to the Panama exposition at San Francisco was made to the South Park commissioners today by a committee of artists from the Palette and Chisel club.

In making our first appearance before the readers of The Tribune, we presume that it will be best to introduce ourselves, to tell you who we are, why we are here and what we are going to do while we stay.

The extension division of the University of Wisconsin has created a bureau of health instruction upon the assumption that the people of the state are eager to secure, as easily as possible, the information which will assure a reasonably long life and the best available health. From week to week this column will be devoted to a discussion of live subjects of everyday health and disease.

Your editor has contracted for this service upon faith that it's going to be worth the space that is devoted to it. If you find it so, let him and us know. If it does not fulfill the need, let us know what you want and we will attempt to supply your want through this column, or, if necessary and advisable, by mail.

Summer Diarrhea

Summer diarrhea is responsible for the death of a large number of infants. It is an inflammation of the bowels due, for the most part, to food which has been spoiled by the hot weather. Warm milk offers ideal conditions for the growth of germs. Inasmuch as milk is the chief food of babies and young children, it is imperative that parents exercise the greatest care in its safe care and handling.

Ice is more than a luxury. Germs do not multiply rapidly, if at all, in low temperatures. Milk which is to be consumed raw should be rapidly chilled after milking and kept cool until just before it is warmed for the child's bottle or cup. Ice preserves life as well as food and it should be considered as much a necessity during hot weather as coal and wood are in winter.

Some cellars are as cold and therefore as good as iceboxes. Indeed, many iceboxes are so poorly insulated and ventilated as to make them unsafe. It may seem silly to suggest that an icebox without ice is no longer doing its chief service; and yet housewives occasionally let the supply of ice run so low as not to keep the interior of the box at a safely low temperature.

There are two chief points in treatment of diarrhea: First, clearing the bowels of irritating substances; second, starving the child for 24 hours. This may seem cruel, but the baby will show his appreciation by rapid improvement in symptoms. Don't give colic, cholera mixtures, etc., except upon the prescription of a good physician. To prevent recurrence, secure and follow most carefully, directions for feeding and otherwise properly caring for the baby.

TOMAH, WIS.

A message was received Friday morning by Mr. W. W. Warren announcing the death of Mrs. Barbara McMillan at Eureka, Cal. The remains will be brought to Tomah on Friday 22nd inst. by her daughter, Mrs. W. W. Warren for burial. Mrs. Warren just reached her mother's bedside a few days before her death. Mrs. McMillan was a former resident of Tomah and is very well known here by the pioneers.

HUNT TRAIN ROBBERS

FAST PASSENGER TRAIN IS HELD UP BY GANG IN PORTLAND AND THIEVES GET
CLEAN AWAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 20.—

The police were ransacking Portland today, according to dispatches from there, for the men who held up the Oregon-Washington Railroad &amp; Navigation line's Soo-Spokane fast passenger train last night under the Twelfth street bridge at Portland. The accounts differed as to whether there were four or five of the robbers. Portland messages said they stopped the train as it was going under the bridge and went through every coach from end to end, keeping up a continual fusillade to intimidate the train crew. The only person hurt was a tramp, who, riding on top of the Pullman's, was hit by a bullet fired through the car roof.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 20.—Twenty thousand dollars reward was offered today for the robbers who held up an Oregon-Washington railroad train inside the city limits last night. Railroad officials said the bandits secured only $87 in cash and $500 worth of jewelry belonging to passengers in the observation car.

UNCHANGED TODAYSulzer Forces Turn Attention to Approaching Impeachment
Trial

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Lieutenant Governor Glynn as acting governor, was expected to issue a statement today, attempting to clarify the dual governorship muddle, which today was as much of a muddle as ever. Although Governor Sulzer's forces continue to jockey for position with the Glynn forces it was evident today that they had turned their attention to the approaching impeachment trial.

Lawyers who are handling Governor Sulzer's affairs, while they are watching daily moves on both sides sharply, were giving their main attention today to preparations for the fight of their lives at the impeachment trial. Glynn followers are getting more confident daily and would raid Governor Sulzer's offices, it is believed, had not Glynn taken a stand against "sensationalism."

"TIGRIS" APPEARS AT THE BIJOU

Thrills abound in the monster four-reel feature which will be the attraction at the Bijou theater on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week. "Tigris, or The Master Crackman" is without a doubt the most thrilling pictorial melodrama that has ever been presented in the world of amusements. Many stupendous productions have been offered from time to time, but it has been conceded by the greatest moving picture authorities that "Tigris" is absolutely the last word.

Not alone in story is the picture wonderful and unique. The action abounds with thrills, and one hardly catches the breath after witnessing one hair-raising episode, before another flashes on the screen with such like-like fidelity that the brain fairly whirls.

There are over 100 scenes and 2,000 people are used. "Tigris" and his daring band of desperadoes perform feats that make the tales of Robin Hood, Jesse James and other noted criminals pass into forgetfulness. The enchanted ball room, the underground den, the detective's escape from death, the trip through the sewers; the strangest duel ever fought, and the fight for life in the dark, are only a few of the many scenes that go to make up the widest and most thrilling detective story ever filmed.

"Tigris" stands for the last word in motion photography. The fact that it is presented by the famous Italian Film company is a sufficient guarantee of its merit. The entire picture was made in and around Turin, Italy, and in addition to the thrilling scenes one catches many a glimpse on enchanting scenery, greatly adding to the value of the film.

A special program of organ music has been prepared by Walter Goetzinger, the famous blind musician, and the lover of pictures is assured of a splendid entertainment.

FALLS FROM TRAIN
AFTER HARD FIGHT

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 20.—After having clung with hands and feet to narrow ledges on the outside of the Pioneer Limited for eight miles, while his face and hands were cut by flying gravel and cinders, John Myslop of Elkhorn, Wis., lost consciousness as the train was passing through Franksville, Wis., at fifty mile an hour and fell to the ground. He was found two hours later. Both legs and both arms were fractured and his skull was crushed. He is now in a hospital in Corliss, Wis., and is not expected to live.

Hyslop is a section foreman for the Milwaukee road. He intended to come to Milwaukee from Corliss on the Pioneer Limited, but the train only slowed down at Corliss. He made a running jump for one of the closed doors, hoping to attract attention and have it opened, but no one answered his knocks.

HORSE MEDICINE
SAVES BIG EATER

APPLETON, Wis., Aug. 20.—E. C. Panzenhagen, a threshing man, established an eating record for Outagamie county. At Hampe's Corners, a few miles from here, he ate half of a limburger cheese and nearly a loaf of bread. Following that he made a bet that he could eat half a gallon of baked beans. He succeeded. He was given horse colic medicine a short time later to relieve his agony.

LAKES TO RIVER
ROAD IS BLAZED

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 20.—Red crosses painted on telephone poles along the Lake-to-River road now mark the route from Milwaukee to St. Paul. The work of marking the course was completed yesterday with the arrival here of Malcolm Makin, secretary of the Milwaukee road association. Only the portion between Milwaukee and Chicago now remains unmarked.

M'ALPINE KILLED
CORONER'S VERDICT

DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 20.—John McAlpine, millionaire lumberman who was found dead in the basement of his home here, was murdered, according to a verdict of the coroner's jury late yesterday. The verdict declares McAlpine "came to his death from a shot fired by some person unknown to the jurors."

The under layer of skin is a fine network of tiny blood vessels in which the famous blood remedy, S. S. S., works with remarkable activity. This is why S. S. S., the best known blood purifier, has such a positive action in the skin. There is one ingredient in S. S. S. which peculiarly stimulates cellular or glandular activity to select from the blood or from this fine network of blood vessels in the skin, those elements which it requires for regeneration.

Thus, pimples, acne, eczema, lupus, or any other blood condition that attacks the skin or seeks an outlet through the skin, is met with the antidotal effect of S. S. S.

Under the influence of S. S. S. this fine network of blood vessels in the skin is constantly taking from the blood the nutrition required for healthy tissue, and the cause of disease is just as constantly becoming removed, scattered and rendered harmless. These facts are more fully explained in a book on skin troubles sent by The Swift Specific Co., 130 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. You will find S. S. S. on sale at all drug stores. The "call of the wild" evidently proved too alluring to the little gray donkey owned by Mr. J. G. Robertson, for last Saturday afternoon as the two Robertson children, Lewis and James, were coming down Main street with the animal hitched to a small two-wheeled cart, it threw up its head, sniffed the breeze and started off on a gallop, with Master Lewis valiantly sawing upon the reins and James bravely hanging onto the seat. The clatter brought to the store doors all those within and one of the braver ones ran out and stopped the mad flight with no damage done save a scare for the children and frustrated plans for the donkey.

TO CHARGE WIFE
WITH MAN'S DEATH

GREEN BAY, Wis., Aug. 20.—As a result of the finding of the coroner's jury on the death of Otto Koehler, a Big Saumico farmer, who was found dead near his home two weeks ago, Mrs. Minnie Koehler, the widow, will be charged with murder.

The coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict that Otto Koehler's death was not due to lightning, as maintained by the widow, but was caused by violence. A warrant is in the hands of the sheriff.

GOVERNOR DON'S OVERALLS

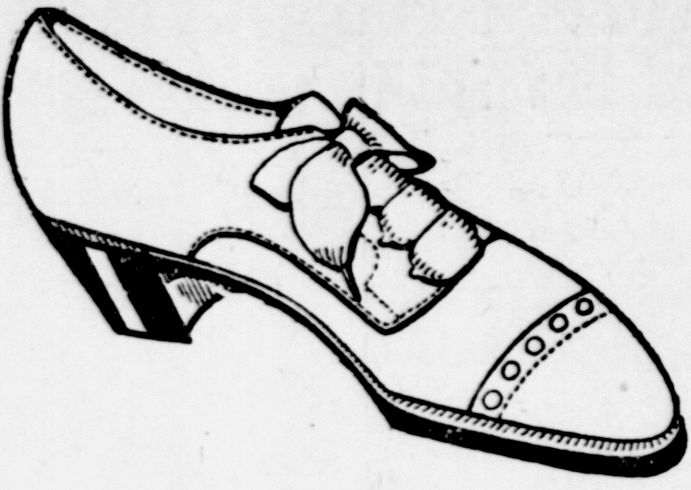

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 20.—Governor Major today declared he would make good his promise to don overalls some time this afternoon and put into practice his theory that every citizen of the state should do a day's full work on the roads to give Missouri the best roadways in the country. Today was the day set by the governor as good roads day and thousands of men were expected to follow the governor's example. One hundred convicts aided in the work and moving picture men were on the job in various sections.

THAW PREPARES FOR LONG FIGHT TO REMAIN FREE

reflected the general opinion of all the Canadians.
One of Thaw's companions on his journey to Canada was arrested today on complaint of immigration officials. He gave his name as Harry Thompson and was held on a charge of having aided and abetted Thaw to escape from Matteawan. He will be given a hearing later. The arrest was instigated by the New York authorities.

Gets Legal Experts

Dr. W. L. Shurtleff and Colonel H. R. Fraser, two of the best known lawyers in the province, the former especially adept in the art of finding holes in the Canadian deportation laws, representing Thaw, applied for a habeas corpus writ immediately after Thaw was remanded to jail, and it therefore took precedence over either the attempted extradition of Thaw or the effort of the dominion immigration authorities to deport the man as an undesirable.

Should the plea for a habeas corpus writ be denied, Thaw will then face possible deportation or extradition. Should an effort at extradition be made first and fail, the immigration authorities could still try to bring about his deportation, under the dominion provision that he has been in a penitentiary or an insane asylum within five years.

Thaw, before he appeared today before Judge Globensky, said that he based his hope of freedom mainly on his possession of a through railroad ticket to Detroit. Thaw claimed that he had a Detroit ticket when he was arrested and said he would produce it in court.

Headed for Detroit

"I am sure I will be freed," he said. "I cannot be extradited or deported, for I have committed no crime and am not an undesirable. I was trying to get to Detroit, and have a ticket to show that. I shall go to Detroit when I am free."

"This arrest is an outrage, and I think I am right in resenting it. These officials who have been instrumental in detaining me probably will find themselves in a mess before I am through with them. They may become involved in actions for damages and I certainly will do all I can to get them into jail. They have exceeded all authority in their attempts to hold me."

Sherbrooke today bids fair to have the time of its life and get a bigger share of the world's spotlight than it ever hoped to enjoy. Powerful forces for and against Harry K. Thaw are bearing down upon the little village and the legal battle promises to be an exciting one, perhaps long drawn out.

New York Officers Come
From Poughkeepsie, N. Y., District Attorney Conner and Sheriff Hornbeck are hurrying here to ask the extradition of Thaw. They have wired to the authorities that they will be here tonight. If the habeas corpus plea fails, the Dutchess county authorities will ask extradition of Thaw, and should the dominion authorities deport him instead, Conner and Hornbeck will try to obtain possession of him wherever he crosses the border.

George L. Carnegie and his wife, who is the sister of Thaw, are hurrying here on a fast train, bringing funds and a New York lawyer to direct the fight for Thaw. The Canadian police, the Canadian immigration authorities, the New York state officials and friends, relatives and counsel for Thaw will be pitted in a legal battle royal, the like of which Canada possibly never saw before.

Thaw is sending many telegrams to friends in the United States. He also has received nearly 100 today expressing sympathy. He wired Dr. Britton D. Evans, the New Jersey insanity expert. While the contents of the messages was withheld, it is considered certain that he has retained Evans as his chief alienist.

As an insane man, Thaw has no standing under the stringent Canadian immigration laws. But if he can claim, and justify the claim, that he was sane and unjustly confined, then his status is materially altered and he is not an undesirable alien.

Thaw and his family are willing to spend a million dollars to keep him from being returned to the asylum for insane convicts.

Asks for Comments

He has telegraphed friends in New York, and all of the big cities of the United States asking them to wire him summaries of the editorial comment on his escape. He is the same Harry K. Thaw. Utterly egotistical, he has already got under his influence all of the jail attendants. He has taken a personal interest in everyone with whom he has had dealings since locked up and today he is as much the central figure in the picturesque old jail here as he was in the crumbling mass of masonry at Fishkill Landing.

O'Mara Stays

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 20.—Roger O'Mara, legal trustee for Harry K. Thaw, will not go to Canada to help his ward, it was stated here today. Thaw telegraphed him for advice and Thaw's relatives were in hopes he would go to Sherbrooke. O'Mara says, however, there is nothing he can do just now.

Mrs. Thaw Ticked

CRESSON, Pa., Aug. 20.—Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, mother of Harry K. Thaw, was chuckling today over the neat manner in which she evaded a number of reporters gathered at the station upon her arrival here last night.

The reporters, with a host of people from nearby towns were on the platform and Mrs. Thaw, seeing them, arranged with a porter to open a door in the left hand side of her coach. She and those with her reached their automobile and were well on the way to "Elkhurst," the Thaw country house, before the reporters could get an automobile and give chase. Mrs. Thaw refused to see them at the house and they were able to get into touch with her only by telephone.

ASK $208 FOR LOSS

RACINE, Wis., Aug. 20.—The Chicago Rubber Clothing company has demanded $298 damages from the city because a defective sewer backed up during a recent rainstorm and ruined a lot of goods in the basement.

FORGER TO WAUPUN

MANITOWOC, Wis., Aug. 20.—E. D. Woods, said to be from New York, convicted of forgery and sentenced to eighteen months in the penitentiary, was taken to Waupun by deputy sheriffs today.

PEACE CONFERENCE DELEGATES GATHER

800 Assemble at The Hague for Twentieth Universal Anti-War Convention

FIFTY ATTEND FROM THE U. S.

Conference This Year to See Dedication of Carnegie's Magnificent Peace Palace

THE HAGUE, Aug. 20.—Over 800 delegates, representing sixteen nations, assembled today in the big Ridderzaal for the opening of the twentieth universal peace conference.

Two days of committee meetings are scheduled preliminary to the first formal general session, which will occur on Friday.

Fifty delegates from the United States attended the opening, including Senator Theodore Burton of Ohio; Oscar Strauss and Mrs. Strauss of New York; Mrs. May W. Sewall, founder of the international council of women; Prof. Amos Hershey of Newcastle, Pa.; Dr. S. R. Dutton, Columbia university, and Dr. J. L. Tyron of Boston. Andrew Carnegie is expected to attend the conference next Wednesday. This year's conference gains additional importance from the fact that next week the magnificent palace of peace, built largely through the munificence of Andrew Carnegie, will be dedicated by Queen Wilhelmina.

Prince Henry of The Netherlands is patron of the congress and the Dutch government is represented by numerous ministers, official delegates and members of the permanent arbitration court. Lord Reay and Norman Angell headed the British delegates.

KRAMER BEATEN IN A SLAB DUEL

WINONA, Minn., Aug. 20.—"Sliver" Myers, pitching the best game of his career, was a puzzle for the Colts in the Winona pasture yesterday afternoon. He twirled superb ball and was master of the situation at every stage. Winona won the battle, 1 to 0, in as pretty a game as has been witnessed here. Michael Kramer opposed the elongated one in the Winona uniform and heaved a masterly exhibition.

The Winona boy allowed only two hits while Kramer permitted seven but three of them were scratches. Behind the two moundsmen was errorless fielding.

Winona's One Run

In the seventh the only one run of the game was shoved around on four hits. Connell's hit with the bases full won the game.

STODDARD FARMER DIES IN LA CROSSE

David Edward Noble, age 30, a farmer of Stoddard, Wis., died last night at 10:30 at the residence of Raymond Rach, a relative, at 1315 Market street, after an illness of six weeks. Death was caused by a complication of diseases. The body will be shipped to Harmony, where the funeral services and burial will take place tomorrow. He is survived by a wife.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S ALLIANCE

LOMIRA, Aug. 20.—What is expected to be one of the most inspiring meetings in the history of the Young People's Alliance of Wisconsin was opened here today by Reverend F. W. Schoeller of Milwaukee with devotional exercises. The sessions of the conference will extend over the next four days and many delegates from Neenah, Oshkosh and other points are here in attendance.

STATE VETS MEET

SHEBOYGAN, Aug. 20.—The Wisconsin Veterinarians opened their regular annual two day state convention here today with a large number of delegates on hand. Dr. H. A. Arpke and Dr. L. C. Tashe of the local committee are in charge of the entertainment program. Many technical papers are to be read during the sessions.

TO SWEEP THE HIGHWAYS

WAUKESHA, Wis., Aug. 20.—This is going to be "clean up" week on the highways and byways about Waukesha. Mayor Hawley Wilbur has designated this week as the one in which the residents shall make the condition of the roads the first interest of their lives. Lawyers and doctors are expected to close up their offices and merchants their stores and join hands with the farmer in mending the roads.

NAMES ISLAND CHIEF

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—President Wilson today appointed Representative Francis Burton Harrison of New York to be governor general of the Philippine Islands. His nomination was sent to the senate today. Harrison is the ranking democratic member of the house ways and means committee.

Don't accept a favor from a man from whom you wouldn't take a joke. When a married man goes down town every night it's a sure sign that he faced the parson with the wrong woman.

FIRST ROUND OF TITLE FLIGHT ON

Play for Championship, President, Directors' and La Crosse Cups

OUTSIDERS LEAD FOR TITLE

Two from Blue Mound and Milwaukee and Kenosha Women Best in the Morning

When play in the women's championship golf tournament was resumed this morning at the LaCrosse Country club, the first round of the championship flight and the flights for the President's cup, Directors' cup and the La Crosse cup were started. The second rounds in all these matches were scheduled to begin at two o'clock this afternoon.

Local Women Lead

In the championship flight, Mrs. Lawson, Blue Mound; Mrs. Burnique, Milwaukee; Miss Green, Blue Mound; and Miss Adams, Kenosha, led in the first round. Mrs. Helfach, Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. B. A. ## UNKNOWN IS FOUND DEAD IN STATEROOM

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 20.—Attempts were being made here this afternoon by the coroner positively to identify the body of a well dressed man of middle age, found in a stateroom on board the steamer Chicago when the lake liner landed here this morning. A chambermaid found the body and physicians who conducted a post mortem said the man had been dead several hours. The man's name appeared on the passenger list as H. J. Baker, but he gave no residence. Death was due to heart disease.

ABANDONING HOPE OF SAVING THEIR PROPERTY AMERICAN RESIDENTS FLEE TROUBLED MEXICO ON EVERY STEAMER

Top, Two fair Mexican señoritas "armed to the teeth" and General Pascual Orozco (extreme left); bottom, General Orozco and his followers.

Abandoning hope of saving their property in Mexico, Americans are fleeing that country on every steamer. The situation outside of Mexico City grows daily more chaotic. The Constitutionalists under Gov. Carranza apparently are stronger in the north than is the government. General Orozco also is proving a thorn in the side of Huerta.

One of the accompanying pictures shows Orozco and his followers armed and ready for defense or attack. The other shows Mexican rebels, including two señoritas, armed and ready for the attack of the federals.

PACKET IS FORCED TO LAY OVER HERE

Quincy Breaks Rudder at Levee and Is Tied Up; Passengers Tour the City

Upon hearing the news that their rudder was broken and that they would be compelled to stay in La Crosse until possibly late tonight, several hundred passengers on the steamer Quincy gave three cheers and the purser didn't have any college boys listed either. There were several La Crosse passengers on board, and they, with friends that had a kindly feeling for La Crosse, said they couldn't help cheering at the prospect of a stay in the city. They disembarked and are taking advantage of the few hours to visit friends and see the town.

As the big steamer made the turn at 6:30 this morning from up river preparatory to docking here the rudder hit a rock. Some trouble was found in landing the big boat. Officers of the steamer said that it would take some time for the rudder to be fixed, as a great deal of the work would have to be done below the water line.

F. L. Axen and J. L. Long, prominent business men of Rock Island, were on the boat, having been on business in the Twin Cities. They stopped off for a short visit with F. H. Burgess, business manager of The Tribune.

JOINT LUTHERAN MEET

GREEN BAY, Wis., Aug. 20.—The joint Lutheran synod of the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin met here today in the initial session of a six day conference. About 200 delegates and visitors are in attendance. The dominant topic of discussion before the conference is the combination of all of the synod of the central west into one or of the church to be concentrated. The synod will also consider the publication of an English paper along with their German publication, "Gemeindeblatt."

The fall term of the Keefe Business College, Fourth and Pearl streets, begins Sept. 2, 1913.

GOULDIN IS BACK FROM HIS VACATION

Layton Gouldin, professor of chemistry at the high school, returned to La Crosse today after a two months' vacation. Mr. Gouldin came to the city from Mount Vernon, Iowa, his old home, where he spent the last few weeks on a farm. He left La Crosse at the close of school in June with Professor Horton Kline. The pair went to the Canada-Minnesota border and spent a week or two fishing. Then they toured the iron range, following this with a trip down the lakes from Duluth to Buffalo. They visited Niagara Falls and went south to Uplands, Indiana. Professor Kline's home. Professor Kline stayed at Uplands but Professor Gouldin, an inveterate baseball fan, went on to Chicago to witness big league ball. He closed his vacation with a few weeks' stay on the farm.

PICNIC AT UNIVERSITY

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 20.—The farmers of this section of the state are picnicking today on the grounds of the University of Wisconsin as the guests of the Madison board of commerce which was recently organized. The college of agriculture will be open for inspection and the guests will be given an opportunity to visit the stock farms and laboratories of the college.

SUMMONS

State of Wisconsin, La Crosse County.—In Circuit Court.

BLAMES PARENTS FOR GIRLS' FALL

Dr. C. A. Harper Tells the Badger Vice Probers that Carelessness Is Cause of Delinquency

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 20.—The Wisconsin legislative vice committee held its first hearing here today. Dr. C. A. Harper, secretary of the state board of health, declared that lack of parental care was responsible for the delinquency of many young girls. "It seems to be the opinion of many medical men," he said, "that a segregated district is a solution of much of our present day immorality. Conditions in Madison were far better when there were resorts here than they are at present."

"The entire country seems to be in the trough of a low moral wave," he declared.

The members of the committee are Senators Teasdale, Lindley, Bingham, Dolan and Assemblymen Bingham, Dolan and Minkley. All were here except Senator Monk, who is expected tonight.

STRIKERS TRY TO KIDNAP LITTLE GIRL

FLAT RIVER, Mo., Aug. 20.—Mary Adams, nine year old daughter of James Adams, mine foreman for the St. Louis Smelting and Refining company at St. Francois, is under physicians' care today as a result of a near-successful attempt, made last night by 50 striking lead miners, to kidnap her. The child is in a serious condition induced by fright. She was saved from being carried away by the strikers through the bravery of two men, who armed themselves with shotguns and held the strikers at bay, while her father carried her to safety behind the company's stockade.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Bullish influences continued to dominate the corn pit today and after a firm opening September gained 3/4c and December 1/2c in the forenoon session. There was an absence of moisture over most of the corn belt and country holders continued to stand pat, awaiting another change in prices.

Wheat started higher to each month with a higher Liverpool cable and maintained the advance throughout the morning. A heavy increase in the visible supply has no depressing effect on prices when Broomhall cabled that Europe would continue to draw on America for wheat for some time.

Oats had a firm undertone, after an early dip that carried prices down a fraction. Buying on the decline checked the market.

Provisions were higher today. The hog prices were about steady and offerings were light.

Corn and wheat futures eased off a fraction in the afternoon, and oats dropped 1/4c for each month before the close.

A general slump that brought closing options under those at the day's opening, featured the afternoon trading in provisions.

Watching The Scoreboard

Ten up and forty-four to play looked so good to the N'Yawks that the Pirates were able to gumshoe in and wallop the champs, 8 to 3. But the Cubs were making it four straight over the Phillies and the runners up are still ten games rearward.

The Athletics gained when they defeated Detroit, while Johnson was pitching the Washington's to a ten inning victory over the Naps.

The Giants were off form to the extent of six errors and Carey helped the Pirates with two home runs. Doc Crandall, pinch pitcher, couldn't save the day.

Schultz shut out the Braves with a lone scratch hit in the second of the two surprise parties at Boston. Long hits won for the Reds.

Dahlen used five pinch hitters, only one of whom reached first. The Brooklynns were helpless before Peritt until he wobbled in the eighth.

Walter Johnson pitched his thirteenth straight win. A fluke hit, an error and a pass saved the Naps from being shut out.

Baker scored two of the runs with which the Athletics turned the tables on the Tigers.

Chicago solved the intricacies of Collins, Mosely and Hall, and the world's champions dropped a second to the White Sox.

DE RUSHA DRAFTED
BY PORTLAND CLUB

George De Rusha, the big first baseman of the La Crosse baseball club has been drafted by the Portland, Ore., team of the Coast league, according to an announcement made here today. Although he played center field and third while the Colts had several men out of the game, De Rusha's regular position is at the initial corner, where he puts up a great game. Besides being a reliable fielder, De Rusha is a good batsman, although not a heavy batter, who will hit the ball in the pinches. He will probably join the western team at the close of the Northern league season.

The St. Paul American association club which has an option on Thomas, has recalled the outfielder and he will report to that team after next Sunday, which marks the closing of the Northern league pennant race. The former star of the University of Illinois nine is a wonderful outfielder who covers a lot of territory and local fans are not surprised that St. Paul recalled him. Thomas also has a good batting eye and he makes a pitcher put the call over before he will hit it. His all around play was excellent during the time the Colts played on the home lot.

WELCOME COMMISSION

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Prominent New York athletic leaders today planned to extend welcome to the German Olympic commission, which comes to the United States to find out why Americans win in the Olympic games. The German commission was due on the Bremen yesterday but the ship was delayed.

RUIN FACES YOUNG
WINDY CITY BROKER

Mr. and Mrs. Francis G. Porter.

Francis G. Porter, a young Chicago grain and provision broker, is plunged into a mass of financial difficulties as the result of stock deals and other transactions of which his business partner, Richard H. Smart, had no knowledge. A receiver appointed by the federal courts is in charge of all his property, including his $40,000 country house and his dogs, said to be worth $25,000. His debts may total a quarter of a million and criminal prosecution is threatened by creditors unless he returns large blocks of stock turned over to him for investment.

CRANDALL TRADED
BACK TO GIANTS

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Otis Crandall, pitcher, whom Manager McGraw of New York National league club traded to the St. Louis team, was taken back today by McGraw. St. Louis received in return a cash consideration and a player whose delivery will be made as soon as the pennant race is settled. McGraw early this month gave Crandall for Larry McLean, a catcher. The exchange was said to have made several of the Giants so angry that they engaged in a fist fight with their manager, as Crandall had been with the local club for a number of years. Crandall was dissatisfied with his new berth.

BRONKIE SIGNS TO LEAD TOLEDO CLUB

TOLEDO, Ohio, Aug. 20.—Manager Bronkie of the Toledo club on Tuesday signed a contract for the 1914 season. The Boston Nationals were after him, and in order to evade the draft the Toledo management signed him for next season. Bronkie has been doing well here since taking up the reins on August 2.

GOOD ENGLISH WANTED

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Fandom is about equally divided over the question of slang or English for its reports of baseball games, judging from results obtained by a local newspaper which today announced the close of a voting contest in which fans expressed their preference. Lovers of pure English numbered 2,004 and those who expressed a preference for slang 1,926. However, more than 3,000 fans refused to take an unqualified stand on either side, voting for a mixture of both.

REGULARS CAPTURE
EVENTS IN SHOOT

CAMP PERRY, Ohio, Aug. 20.—United States service marksmanship carried off the honors at the rifle tournament Tuesday in both the governor's and the enlisted men's team matches.

Lieutenant Harry Hanley of the infantry team took the governor's race from the 480 competitors by scoring 244; Major P. A. Wolf, infantry, was second, 241; Sergeant R. C. Robinson, cavalry, third, 239. The cavalry team of six enlisted men won the team match with 571. This breaks the match record of 552 by the navy since the contest was first shot in 1911.

A co-operative egg selling association, with the school house as the place for gathering eggs, the children to bring them in, and the teacher to supervise sales, is suggested by W. J. Suford of Hickory, N. C.

RACING DRIVER TO
SUE FOR $100,000

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Frank L. Adams, a racing driver, who says he was unable to enter the Indianapolis speedway 500 mile race because an automobile company failed to supply him with a car, has brought suit against the Automobile Motor and Engineering company for $100,000. That amount, Adams states, will about compensate him for the ridicule he suffered at the hands of newspapers and automobile men for his failure to compete after his picture had been printed in the official race program.

STAR SHORTSTOP TO GO TO WHITE SOX

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Pitcher Bill Lange and Outfielder Walter Mattick of the White Sox have been traded to Kansas City for Shortstop Breton. It was announced today. Lange has not been classed with the other Sox twirlers this year and Mattick has been unable to hit. Breton is a sensational collegian who was sought by several league clubs.

AFTER BRITISH GOLFERS

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Harry Vardon and Edward Ray, English golf champions, who came to America for the September golf champion series, have "bookings" and requests for "bookings" rivaling a Chautauqua lecture program. Most of the cities of the west have asked the Englishmen to be head liners for tournaments.

CHICKEN FOR WORKERS

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 20.—The odor of fried chicken permeated the atmosphere of Missouri today. From all points came reports that the wives and mothers of the state were serving the cream of the land to the road workers, led by Governor Major. Everywhere it was free to all workers.

MRS PELL TO EUROPE

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Mrs. Osgood Pell, widow of the man who was killed in a Long Island automobile accident several weeks ago, was on her way to Europe today when Coroner Neu resumed the inquest at Long Beach. Mrs. Pell sailed last night for England on the Mauretania, much to the disappointment of the coroner, who expected to obtain her testimony today.
